

"Today, the geopolitical situation in the world and in the Indo-Pacific in particular demands greater vigilance. I am aware that the Navy has adopted mission-based deployments in the Indian Ocean region," Kovind said.

Heaping praise on INS Shivaji for imparting technical training of highest standard to marine engineers from the Indian Navy, Coast Guard and friendly foreign countries, Kovind said: "High quality training of marine engineers is crucial for sustained deployments and presence in our areas of interest. The future will also see great diversity in the propulsion systems ranging from conventional to nuclear and electric and hybrid propulsion."

"Concepts of maintenance will also undergo a paradigm need to impart the requisite skills to all trainees to prepare them to meet future challenges," the President said.

"As INS Shivaji completes 75 years of excellence, let us introspect and reflect on the journey so far and also glance at the future. Technology is leapfrogging to produce autonomous vessels. Artificial intelligence and machine learning are being deployed for decision-making and war-fighting," Kovind said.

"The training of marine engineers will also need to be tailored to train them to work with evolving technologies, while maintaining competence in the core engineering profession. I am confident that INS Shivaji would impart the skill set required in the future to all trainees passing out through its portals," the President said.

K'taka: Ban pro-Kanna has little effect

PTI ■ BENGALURU

The bandh call given by some Pro-Kannada organisations demanding implementation of an over three decades old report recommending job reservation for Kannadigas, had little effect on normal life in Bengaluru and other parts of the State on Thursday.

Barring a stray incident of have fought back against," Tata wrote. I still remember, after WW2, she took my brother and I for summer holidays to London. It was there that the values were really hammered in.

Home Minister and Deshmukh sought to put the ball in the court of Chief Minister Uddhav Thackeray, who belongs to the Shiv Sena, the lead constituent in the ruling Maha Vikas Aghadi which also consists of the NCP and Chief Minister has the right to overrule my stand."

The Centre last month transferred the probe in the case from the Pune Police to the NIA, a move then criticised by the Shiv Sena-NCP-Congress Government. PTI
